- Tim Leiting has volunteered to help with the contest committee. Thank You Tim.
- Rearing pond reports the sheds have been painted, well pump has been winterized. The rearing Pond Committee will contact the city on regulations for installation of a permanent roof, this project can be costly so we will approach this in a methodical way. Acknowledging all options before any decisions are made. We are have no time restraints. We will also be looking into having a grant request written. Lengthy discussions on this topic could ensue. However there is some knowledge in the club on this. If you or any one you know is fluent with this please let us know. The more knowledge the better.
- Ironwood Pacific Outdoors has become a sponsor for the Kenosha Sports Fishing And Conservation Association. This company even donated a new set up for our Fishing Game used for our booth set up. This will omit using hooks. Keeping the youth and us safe and help the young ones "hook a fish!" Thanks' to James Zondlak and Ironwood Pacific Outdoors for endorsing us.

IGFA approves world status for Lake Michigan brown trout Catch is a new line-class record and will share the all-tackle world record

(article from the Great Lakes Basin Report)

The International Game Fish Association (IGFA) on November 11 declared the 41.8 lb. brown trout Roger Hellen caught July 16 in Lake Michigan off Racine one world record and shares another.

The monster catch has already earned him $10,000 for the biggest fish of the Salmon-A-Rama fishing contest, and placed his name in the state record book. It is the largest fish of any species landed in Salmon-A-Rama's 30-plus year history.

Also, the National Freshwater Fishing Hall of Fame in Hayward has already certified Hellen's catch as the species world record.

The IGFA approved a 50 lb. test line-class record for Hellen, and his fish will share the all-tackle record with another Lake Michigan monster, a 41.7 lb. brown caught last year.

Under the IGFA rules, Hellen's fish is listed as a co-record with a 41.7 lb. brown trout caught on September 9, 2009 by Thomas Healy in the Manistee River in Michigan. To replace an existing world record IGFA rules state "the replacement must weigh at least 1/2 of 1% more than the existing record. Hellen's fish would have had to exceed the existing record by over 3 ounces.

The previous Wisconsin brown trout record is a 36.9 lb. fish caught in Lake Michigan off Kewaunee County on August 23, 2004. These brown trout are from the hardy Seeforellen strain initially planted in Lake Michigan some years ago to replace the fungus prone domestic strain. Seeforellens tend to live longer, grow bigger and stay healthy.

Wisconsin DNR officials say Hellen's fish is probably a Seeforellen, but is presently running a study on the fish to determine the strain.

Rare albino musky caught in Rusk County

(article from the GLBR)

RUSK COUNTY, WI – The musky Paul Parise boated on October 6, 2010, from the lower Flambeau River in Rusk County is truly the rarest of the rare: a 51" albino musky.

Paul Parise landed this 51-inch albino musky on October 6, from the lower Flambeau River "That is a pretty fantastic catch," says Tim Simonson, co-chair of the Department of Natural Resources musky committee. "Albino musky are pretty rare to begin with, and for one to survive to that size is pretty uncommon given they don't have the protective camouflage to hide from predators or sneak up on prey. This fish stood out from day one, but through luck and maybe some skill, it survived."

The fish is the second albino musky to surface in Wisconsin waters in recent years. In 2005, a DNR fisheries crew caught a white musky in their fyke nets during population surveys. But that fish was much smaller — 32.7 inches long and 7.9 pounds at the time. Albinism is a heredity condition in humans, other mammals, birds, fish, reptiles and amphibians, in which there is a total or partial lack of pigment that gives color to the skin, hair and eyes.

The growth and development of an albino is the same as that of a normal individual. They also have the ability to reproduce offspring.

Kenosha's Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony

Saturday, December 4, 2010; 4:00 p.m.
Civil War Museum, 5400 First Avenue

The tree lighting ceremony is one way our community marks the start of the holiday season. Please note that this year's program begins inside the Civil War Museum. Have fun at the International Holiday Festival at the Kenosha Public Museum before the tree lighting ceremony.

At the tree lighting ceremony, enjoy performances by Jazz Spectrum and New Image Chorus. Special guests include Mayor Keith Bosman and Rev. Dr. Harvard Stephens, Jr., dean of Carthage College Siebert Chapel. Of course, the program wouldn't be complete without Santa! He'll entertain young and old alike and draw the names of two kids to help light the tree! (Entry forms are available on the day of the event at the Civil War Museum's front desk.)

We'll get you right into the holiday spirit, so don your Santa hat and join us!

Pineapple Salmon (from the GLA)

Take a can of crushed pineapple and drain all the juice. Mix the pineapple with equal parts honey and maple syrup to get a "gooey" paste. Add a couple Tablespoons of shredded coconut and 1/2 teaspoon of vanilla.

I like to spread it on the fillet for an hour to marinate, then scrape it off so it can go on the grill meat side down first. When I flip over to the skin side down, I re-spread it on the fillet about a 1/4in thick and finish grilling. I'm sure you could bake it like this also. This salmon tastes more like a desert than main course and will win over most kids.

Bait & Tackle

10/12/10 What can I say? The fishing has been slow the last couple of weeks to say the least. We have been plagued with high temps, high skies, and dry air. WE NEED RAIN. The temps should be at least 10 degrees cooler than they have been for this time of year.

There are people getting fish, but no where near as many are being caught as should be at this time.

Spawn seems to be the go to bait. There are still some fish coming in the evenings on crankbaits like the glow-green thunderstik. Personally, I like the look of the new Reefrunner colors that are out right now. They look like they could do the trick when all else fails. Not many people use them which makes them more appealing.

Rainbows haven't really started yet. Browns have been being caught consistently, and are now moving to their small tube under a bobber routine.

Inland- as unbelievable as it may seem, the Bluegills are still hitting on Delavan. They are now very deep, (42 ft.) but still hungry. Geneva- most of what I've heard is that Geneva has not been producing as it should be either. There have been rumors of big gills deep (40+), but I haven't been able to substantiate this.

Hang in there. We still have the Rainbows to look forward to. There were plenty of fish at the Racine Steelhead Facility for their open house last Saturday, so I'm going to remain optimistic as to the end not being here yet.

10/24/10 This rain might be the last push for the Kings. Not that there was ever a good one before now. To say this was a slow year is an understatement. However, lots of people caught fish. And some of them were rookies. Several new people got turned to the Oslos this year.

Sometimes I think it's over, and then I'll get a rush on a certain lure, which means, someone must have connected. I'd say the creek was a bust this year with the low water, as well as the Root, but then I get a rush on a certain colored fly, which again, shows otherwise.

In summary I'd say you just had to be there when the fish bit. There were lots of fish in the harbor at least, all season, if not the creek. In fact there still are at the moment. And there are still Rainbows around and Browns. Last year the Rainbows were being caught by the ton until the ice went on.

The last couple of weeks have not been conducive to going to Delavan, but I'll check with Eddie to see if the gills are still biting. I know the last time he went, around the 15th, they still got 'em.

Although most sportsmen's thoughts are turning to hunting, many are still fishing and doing well.

Steve Reuter hasn't put his boat away yet, and he may not. Mike Williams finally pulled his out this last week, and has been long-faced ever since.

If I hear of any Walleye runs, or White Bass runs I'll pass it along. This time of year is often as good for those fish as it is in the spring. Later- Bob

As I put this newsletter together it dawns on me. It will be December when you get this. Naw I ain't getting all sentimental. But I do want to acknowledge our accomplishments.

All the committee's functioned well. The club still stands in a good way and the Rearing Pond never looked so good.

We all have the same goal, just want to say thanks to all for your time and effort's.

So we've only had one hit in a half hour Travis, Sure ya don't wanna give it another 10 min?
