Scales & Tales

Fish-N-Fun Committee: No reports as of this time.

Contest Committee: Last couple tournaments were either delayed or canceled because of weather or lake conditions. Hopefully next month I can post the monthly and tournament standings for 2011. Noticed a lot of repeat names in the monthly's.

Fundraiser Committee: No reports to speak of yet but I am sure Jim and the committee are warming up. Notes from last year are being scrutinized for better results this year. And last year was great! Any how I want to use this time to let you know the club has hats for $15.00 and T-Shirts, jackets and sweatshirts can be purchased with our logo at The "Lettering Machine". A block west of the Boathouse. 725-50th St. (262)625-4177

Sunshine Committee: I left for Mexico for a week, a few days after hearing about Marcello Covelli passing. Jerry Vigansky would like to have a "Living Memorial" for Marcello. A great idea really, since this year destroyed so many tree's by the lake he motioned we plant one near the Rearing Pond. Leroy Fox's mother had a heart attack but I heard she was released the 14th. And then Lisa's mom broke her wrist the same week. Jerry's brother in law is in bad health and Jerry will be busy for a while. If any one can temporarily (three month's) head the Swap Meet and Sunshine Committee please let any Board member know.

Supporting & General Membership Committee: As of 10/3/11 we are up to 62 members.

Rearing Pond Committee: Mark Hasenberg explained we need to replace four feet of 12 inch pipe. At meeting time he was seeking help to dig, to insert pvc piping where the steel is compromised.

Pike River Committee: Pike River clean up went very well. Please see the article and pictures in the newsletter.

Fly Tying Committee: Jack Springer, Dave and Zach Stock will team up for the 2011 2012 year. Jack now has the camera to update his class. Students will see up close just what he is doing. Again see the flyer in the newsletter. Class' begin October 18th in the basement of the Moose Lodge. Jack is excited to have his first fly presented, the Shop Vac!

Electronic Communication Committee: Lynn Davis is seeing first hand how our Facebook page continues to grow. Statistics' from the week of 10/3/11. June 1st we had 74 likes and 35 monthly active users. Now we have 126 likes and 351 monthly active users. 33% are ladies and 67% are men between the ages of 25 and 67. Not that we are counting. Michael Peterman is working our website. At this time catching up on e-mail address' for each committee and membership to make communication easier for all of us.

Publication Committee: Any one having a interest in the Newsletter let me know. pbjuga@yahoo.com

2011 Pike River Committee Hit's A Homerun

Jim Zondlak, Andy Stowe, and Paul Davis run this committee. Their persistence is to be recognized. Failure was never an option. They observed a need, involved the public and took action.

I am sure you seen the article in the Kenosha News. I am sure there are many people who have paid time to this event but I have to give Jim an personal acknowledgment. He is very methodical and professional.

From the pictures you see, I have taken from the club Facebook link. To all members and non, that participated in this endeavor, Thank You and great job. Saving nature for the future.

Please take the time to read the article on page 4. The DNR was busy at the Root .

BRUCE DENTICE

Bob's Harborside Bait & Tackle

Can't believe it's been so long since I've posted. Can't even catch my breath. Been tying spawn sacks until my hands ache. Not just me, Dave too. They have been flying out of here so fast we can't keep up.

(O.K. mom too. She thinks she's faster than me. I guess some day we'll have to have a little contest.)

Fishing has been really good for those who use the right stuff. People have been coming in for weeks saying they have seen lots of fish being caught on our spawn sacks. For those who haven't been doing good, try to stop in and talk. We'll try to help. Crank-baits- like the glow green thunderstik have been good early morning and late evening. Have also seen the Bill Lewis rattletraps leaving the store. Also had to re-order the Luckycraft pointer 100 in the pearl AYU color. So those are the top cranks. Spoons- the one I've had to re-stock the most has been the Nickel Neon Blue 3/4 oz. Cleo. Second would of course be the Nickel Neon Green. Both of these metallics work well in sunshine, and that's what we've had plenty of. Also rans- glow 3/4 Cleos when it is cloudy, or in poor light conditions in orange, blue, or green. Haven't sold many Krocodiles this year. Don't know why. Usually the glo/green with the black dots is a big hit.

Kastmasters have been selling like crazy also, but I see nothing special about them. It could be that people like the distance they can achieve when throwing one of them. Again, in the metallic colors. Oslos? They were their good usual selves, but I haven't had a chance to replace them yet. Been too busy to put in an order. White was the color while it lasted. Then chartreuse followed by pink. Will work on getting more. Moonshines flew out of here at the beginning of the fall debacle, but have now slowed. Happy meal was number one, followed by agent orange, with a new just tried this year color- tangerine tiger bringing up the rear. Kind of a femmy name for a spoon, eh? It's almost like I can hear him introducing himself to the other spoons- "Hi fellas, I'm Tangerine Tiger". He speaks with a lisp. You have to add that yourself. Now put your hand on your hip. Nevermind.

Well that sums up the hot items from here. As far as it being over? I don't think so. The DNR just had their open house at the weir in Racine last Saturday, so there are plenty of fish still around.

Inland- Hit Delevan and Geneva and you will return with big pansfish. I'm dying to get back out to Silver and throw some buck-tails, but it probably won't happen. Gotta run- Bob

P.S. if we're ever short with anyone here, it's because as much as we try to be cheerful we can only take hearing the same question a couple of thousand times before we want to scream. If someone is a true beginner and is having trouble I, and Dave as much of a hard-ass as he is, will make time to show him, or her the ropes. Because while we are showing them they will not try to tell us we're wrong. You can only teach those who want to be taught. There's a lady that came in here this year, early in the morning when I had time that had a ton of questions. She listened intently, did everything I said, had done a little homework so she already had the right gear, at the end of our talk she said I was, "awesome". So I must not be the A-hole everybody thinks I am. There are only two kinds that get my goat. They are what I refer to as- drive-by, or phone it in fishermen. Number one is the guy that calls and asks me 40 questions on the phone nearly to what color underwear the people who were catching fish had on. This guy wants water temp., clarity, a barometric pressure reading, wind speed and direction, blah,blah,blah. I only have so much info.. More along the lines of: if they're biting, on what, and what time of day is best. In the case of trolling, I can, for the most part tell you how deep they're getting them.

That's all. No crystal ball. No magic bait shop owner pipeline. I will never say something is hot just to make a sale. I will also be the first to tell you to stay home if they have lockjaw. Dave and I believe honesty is priority one. We've both been bullshitted by bait shops in our travels. Who hasn't? Guy number two is the guy that calls, and before I can get the answer out of my mouth he's already answered what he asked me. No matter what I say- he has his own version. My response after he hangs up is: What the hell did you call for? You already know everything. This place is so nuts this time of year, not that I'm complaining, that we get rattled with all the questions. So if we've wronged anyone, we apologize. Bob

Wardens work to save fish, restocking program from violators

(article from the WIDNR website)

Wardens Shaun Deeney, Ron Cork, Randy Dunkel, Mac Hannon, Dave Walz and Mike Hirschboeck pose with evidence and fish seized during the October 6 - 9 fish run deployments in Racine County. Wardens issued more than 35 citations.

Warden Supervisor Jennifer C. Niemeyer says salmon and trout have been shot with guns, beaten with a log, snagged in the back, and taken by hand during the annual fish run for spawning.

That's illegal fishing of the public's wildlife and void of all fair chase principles. Making it even worse is this happens when the fish are at their most vulnerable state.

It's also called poaching. And it's why DNR wardens just spent another four days on the crowded Root River in Racine County catching violators to protect these fish and the ongoing restocking program while supporting the men and women who fish legally to sustain the resource for others.

As Niemeyer tells it, this has been a problem for years. It is a problem on the Root River in Racine County, known to attract more than 300 anglers a day, standing shoulder to shoulder on this stream that is -- at most -- 20-feet wide and not even two feet deep in some areas.

As she also stresses, this is a bigger problem than in Racine County. The annual fish run and related poaching problems stretch all the way up the Lake Michigan coastline into the Green Bay area. In addition to the poaching problems, the social issues of littering and some flared tempers also come with it. But that's another story. At the foundation of this issue are the fish.

"This is a fair chase issue -- number one," says Niemeyer, who covers Racine, Kenosha and Walworth counties in the state's southeast corner. "It is not legal to snag these fish. You have to catch them by hook and line in the mouth. This is why it is hard.

"During their spawning phase, the salmon and trout are not always aggressive eaters so at times fishers have to work for their fish. Some fishers may get frustrated -- so they hook one in the back, look around and if no one is looking, they keep it."

But someone does see them.

Most often it is a frustrated angler legally fishing the public resource. "We wardens can be standing around one corner working on one incident, and get the hotline call about another incident," she says. (cont. on page 5)

A team of wardens based in southeast region and others deployed from other state regions worked the Root River. From October 6 – 9, the wardens issued more than 35 citations for illegal fishing. “We get calls on our hotline system if people don’t see us out on the river. They want our help,” she says.

The fish run on the Root River in Racine County. The Root River also is home to a restocking program that puts the fish at more risk. Niemeyer says a dam is in place to help the fish travel a ladder of sorts and into a fish refuge weir. The fish eggs left there are used for the restocking program, making this fish resource sustainable.

“We have had cases where the violators go into the refuge, chase out the fish and then illegally snag them,” she says. “We are trying to protect the fish from getting snagged out so we can take the eggs and release them back up stream.”

Niemeyer says her southeast warden team would not be able to handle this alone and thanks the wardens who travel from other state regions to help protect the resources.

“If we didn’t have the deployed wardens, it would be nearly impossible to catch the violators,” she says. “And the public wants us there to stop it.”

JUST FYI

- Coho salmon generally spawn at 2+ years (two summers in the lake). Some male cohos will spawn after only one summer in the lake. The majority of steelhead spawn at 3 and 4 years, with some spawning at 5 to 6 years. The oldest steelhead spawned at the Root River Steelhead Facility was an 8 year old male. The majority of chinook salmon spawn after spending 2 to 4 summers in the lake. A chinook spawning after 4 summers in the lake would be 3+ years old, since they are stocked as spring fingerlings that are less than a year old. Brown trout typically spawn at age 2 to 4.
